

Christening of the Heiress to Holland's Throne (Beatrix Armgard): The loyal subjects of the Royal House of Orange, aristocrats and commoners, rich and poor, old and young, whole-heartedly took part in the joyful celebrations on the occasion of the christening of Princess Beatrix, infant daughter of Princess Juliana and Prince Bernard. With touching affection and devotion, the whole county rejoiced in the happiness of its beloved Royal family. A brilliant pageant was staged to honor the heiress presumptive to the Dutch throne. All the notables and dignitaries of the country, Royal guests from abroad, including King Leopold of the Belgians joined the splendid procession to the great church of the Hague where the religious ceremony took place. The infant princess' godparents were King Leopold of the Belgians, Duke Adolph Frederick of Mecklen
