Description

From the portfolio forward: "Artist, teacher and dowser, Cain works with the earth's energy to create contemporary sacred spaces, labyrinths and environmental sculptures. Her site-specific artworks are informed by numerous trips to England and throughout the United States to research and document ancient sacred sites. Cain received her MFA from the University of Iowa, is a founding member of Reclamation Artists and a life member of the American Society of Dowsters. She currently teaches at the School of the Museum of Fine Arts and Tufts University. Cain's print is a four-separation woodcut depicting Elephant Rock, an ancient sacred site in Newport, New Hampshire."
