

After Mother Country's Scalp

Date

published July 17, 1886

Primary Maker

Thomas Nast

Medium

Wood engraving on newsprint

Dimensions

Sheet: 15 3/4 x 11 in. (40 x 27.9 cm) Composition: 14 1/2 x 9 1/2 in. (36.8 x 24.1 cm)

AFTER MOTHER COUNTRY'S SCALP.

"To whom do the scalp-bags of glory do not belong?"—Graphic: Express of Pennsylvania, July 5.

ASSAULTING AN OFFICER.

The illustration is a caricature of a Native American man, standing over a severed head. He is surrounded by other Native Americans, some holding spears and bows. In the background, a large wooden structure resembling a gallows or a monument is visible, topped with a crown and a banner that reads 'CUM PRO'.

All we need from an Indian is scalp and bones. The rest is not worth the trouble. The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones. The rest is not worth the trouble. The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones.

They have not yet been seen, but we shall see them in a few days. They are the only thing that is worth the trouble. The rest is not worth the trouble. The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones.

The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones. The rest is not worth the trouble. The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones. The rest is not worth the trouble. The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones.

The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones. The rest is not worth the trouble. The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones. The rest is not worth the trouble. The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones.

The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones. The rest is not worth the trouble. The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones. The rest is not worth the trouble. The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones.

The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones. The rest is not worth the trouble. The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones. The rest is not worth the trouble. The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones.

The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones. The rest is not worth the trouble. The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones. The rest is not worth the trouble. The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones.

The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones. The rest is not worth the trouble. The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones. The rest is not worth the trouble. The only thing that is worth the trouble is the scalp and bones.