

Ici Lima --The first specialized TV school opened in the Peruvian capital: there are schools for everything in the world and as human knowledge expands, new schools open their doors.

Date

1961

Primary Maker

Paul Almásy

Medium

Vintage ferrotyped gelatin silver print

Description

Ici Lima --The first specialized TV school opened in the Peruvian capital: there are schools for everything in the world and as human knowledge expands, new schools open their doors. Each step of progress generates another, education is the driving force of modern civilization. Television, one of the most attractive inventions of the century, is still in its infancy. The future holds extraordinary possibilities for it, and in all countries we are trying to speed up the training of specialists. Peru deserves the credit for having created the first TV school. The program covers everything related to television, from the construction of a receiver to the production of a program. The courses last two years and the number of students is currently limited to 30. The school director is a TV technician, Isaac Aquise Chavez who is assisted by Professor Rolando Arellano, expert in electronic science. Filming lessons. All students receive operator training, Peru.

Dimensions

Image: 10 1/2 x 9 1/4 in. (26.7 x 23.5 cm) Sheet: 10 1/2 x 9 1/4 in. (26.7 x 23.5 cm)